This one-day CPD approved course will provide a detailed insight into the right way to establish, enforce and develop packaging specifications to supply or receive the packaging you need, on time and on budget. It will also help you to understand, network and grow your knowledge of the packaging industry and specifications.

WHAT'S IN IT FOR ME?

This one-day course provides you with a toolbox of information, that will include:

- Different types of specification, their variables and attributes
- Developing a specification, what to include, materials versus performance
- Balancing the various requirements of your company's departments
- How to control your suppliers, control and monitor quality, review and manage issues that arise

The Packaging Specifications course is held at our IOM3 Training Academy Grantham centre and taught in a small group with detailed examples of a variety of packaging types and materials, allowing students to explore their own situations and go away with clear ideas about improvements that they can make to their own processes.

BENEFITS

- Drive innovation and efficiency in your business
- Provides a level of insight and understanding of the packaging industry that adds real and measurable value to you and your businesses
- Staff equipped to drive development
- Best practice to maximise profit
- Access to the experience of the industry
